

Media Literacy: Legends Over Time

PRODUCE YOUR OWN MEDIA

A film treatment is a brief written description of a proposed film. It covers the basic plot lines and conflicts, the characters, and even location ideas. A treatment is meant to interest financial backers, directors and actors, as well as provide a vision for the film.

Directions: Choose a famous myth or legend on which to base a movie treatment. Your treatment should be as detailed as possible about the story itself and how you plan to interpret it. Use the following outline to help you plan your treatment.

A. Major Plot Lines

B. Costuming

C. Setting

D. Lighting
